ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

The biggest challenge that plagues the country is the shortage of skilled labours across all sectors. Each year over sixty million plus students graduate and more than 70% of them are left unemployed because of lack of requisite skills. This could be addressed by introducing a skill based training curriculum to close the gap between unemployment and education. It is therefore necessary to convert the existing opportunities into a reality for youngsters by addressing their needs at a massive scale across fields including engineering, technology, architecture, pharmacy, management, applied sciences and arts. These courses are designed to provide dual advantage of education and skill development which will better career prospects for these individuals. The need of the hour is that the academicians themselves be aware of all these. Hope these two days National Workshop empower research scholars and delegates in every possible way.
